

Brand Learning: Global experts in creating growth capabilities

We help leading companies like PepsiCo, Unilever, Shell, HSBC and GSK shape the future and create the growth capabilities to make it happen in practice.

Typically we are called in by a CEO, CMO, HR Director or Sales Director, to help them:

- Set ambition for the future
- Develop winning growth strategies and plans
- Identify the capabilities needed to grow

What makes us stand out is our expert and specialist focus on customer-centred capability building at both the organisational and the individual level, coupled with the practical business experience of our team, all of whom have blue chip backgrounds.

Founded in 2000, we are global experts in customer-centred capability development

Our 3 hubs are in London, New York & Singapore

We have run programmes in over 62 countries

We have capability experts in 16 countries speaking 11 languages

85% of our work is with existing clients or from their recommendations

What our clients say about us

The best in the field

With a great understanding of challenges through being former 'clients', our BL team rapidly got to the point. They listened carefully, tailored great solutions and delivered. In short, we got great solutions better and more quickly through using BL. At the same time, my teams really learnt on the journey, leaving us a far stronger, more thoughtful organisation at the end.
